This is the final Office Action for the serial number 10/580,612, ADJUSTABLE SUPPORT MECHANISM, filed on 3/27/07.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US Patent # 6,672,553 to Lin.

Lin teaches a first bracket (1), a second bracket (4 and 7), a connecting member (5) pivotally coupled to the first bracket at a first position and pivotally coupled to the second bracket position spaced from the first position, and a linking member (3) coupled to the connecting member so as to be movable in relation to the connecting member. The linking member is arranged to engage the first bracket and second bracket. The linking member is coupled to the connecting member so as to be movable transversely in relation to a line between the first position and the second position. The first bracket and the second bracket are each coupled to the connecting member with a screw drive mechanism (21, 61). The screw drive comprises a cylinder with a periphery. The linking member comprises a first end and second end. The first and second ends having collars (231, 631) formed thereon engaging the first bracket and the second bracket by receiving and circumferentially surrounding the cylinders. Lin teaches a biasing means (22, 23) for biasing the linking member to a rest position and a locking mechanism (23).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-2, 5-19 and 21 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 3/26/09 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

With regard to claim 3, the applicant argues "Lin does not disclose a linking member pivotally coupled to a connecting member at a midway point along the connection member as recited in claim 3. Claim 3 discloses a linking member pivotally coupled to the connecting member at a midway point between where the connecting member connects to the first bracket and the second bracket." The examiner disagrees with the applicant because Lin's linking member is pivotally connected to the connecting member and also is pivotally connected to both first and second brackets. Since the linking member is placed adjacent to the connecting member, the linking member is pivotally coupled to the connecting member at the midway point along thereof.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
